Rubber vs. Gas Contest (One man's version)

'Twas on the beautiful sunny morning of Oct. 8 that a couple of screwballs (model builders to you) came pouncing on me. We put most of our crates together so as to make the long journey easier. There we were, at 63rd and Cicero ready to walk the distance to 79th street. My, but did my feet hurt. We finally arrived and it was perfect flying weather with a slight summer breeze tickleing our whiskers. Now I suppose all you dopes wondered how in the world a butcher like me could ever win first place. Well I did (by accident). I signed up about eleven o'clock and took my first official. By this time the sky had become dark and the sun was covered until about 3:30 in the afternoon. The arrangement for checking and getting weighed was very good altho they should have had two tables, one for each division of models. After finding a stooge to hold my model I put 100 winder winds in

A few more words on the rubber vs. gas contest. It seems that there is just as much a deadlock as ever about the qualities of rubber model against the gas model because of having both a gas and rubber model take a first place. Incidentally the Open Class winner was Alvin Anderson with a gas job and the Jr.-Sr. Class winner was Joe Limosani with a rubber model. Places were as follows:

Open Division

- | | |
|-------------------|--------|
| 1. Alvin Anderson | Gas |
| 2. Harry Kuhn | Gas |
| 3. Ralph Muchow | Gas |
| 4. G. N. Roberts | Gas |
| 5. Leo Vartanian | Rubber |

Juniors-Seniors Division

- | | |
|----------------------|--------|
| 1. Joe Limosani | Rubber |
| 2. Charles Eves | Gas |
| 3. Carl Canfield | Rubber |
| 4. Howard Kuhn | Gas |
| 5. Arthur Beckington | Rubber |

After looking over this list I refuse to think any more. I got a headache. You figure it out. If and when you do, let me know.

Not having any articles on the Oct. 22 meet I hope this is sat-the sixteen strads of quarter. I got up to a fairly decent height and began to glide around. There was very little turn and a slight dive in the glide. This was done to keep from losing it on my 1st official (now I'm bragging). It was up for a little over 3 minute (Ed. There's that three minute dive again I've heard so much of). The second official made almost 3 minutes. After waiting around to fly my 3rd official untill 3 P.M. thinking the sun would come out, I finnally flew. While winding, my helper accidently moved the wing over to one side and the ship almost piled in. The flight was only 1:30 minutes. Then while I was flying my little stick, I was told that I placed first and I as rushed over to get my $25.

Basketball

Looking over a lot of old paper of the Aeronuts, I found there used to be a basketball team. What happened to it? Why not have one now? If you think so, bring it up at the next meeting (or right now). Lets make a winning team. All this will help re-organize itself. We meet for enjoyment so why not have it.

Record Notes

Since the Aeronuts have started to really fly again they have more records than any other club in the country. This shows that we're not entirely asleep. Keep it up.

Point Standings

This is the latest report I have on the point system.

1. Milton Huguelet	115 pt.
2. Joe Matulis	55 pt.
3. Armando Sinabaldo	47 pt.
4. Joe Limosani	45 pt.
5. Pete Vacco	41 pt.

The Weather vane

Hey, Limosani-when are you going to treat? $25, thats about 175 sodas or 5 sodas and 2 candy bars for each Nut. Yeh! Nuts to you but hers; says Joe.

Well! Well! Hollis comes out from hibernation. After a long absence from him, Bill showed up to do a fine job of weighting all tubs at the 8th meet.

Fromm just earned his cleaver all over again. From the paint job on his latest Jabberwock you couldn't tell it from a sur-realist painting in an insane asylum. The viner took one look at it and when last seen, had a queer foam about the mouth and 3 prs. of colored glasses on.

You can't kid us, Vartanian, we know you got in the Nuts again in order to find some ping-pong competition. IT's good to see the old timers drifting back and showing us how to fly.

I noticed last Sunday that many of the fellows were using long tooth-pick props. Couldn't be they were waiting for Bromly to bring another bottle of jam?

What to do when your flop back throws a blade? Ask Butch-he makes a one blader out of it.

I see the editor had a bunch of these here mags left over last meeting. We'll have no more of that. How about shelling out an extra 2c and send a bulletin to one of our absent members away at school or interested out-of-town-ers. You'll get more out of our organization if you suport it.

Well gates, lets close! EL

Say! There isn't much doing about the Bulletin contest. Now lets have some of those drawings. If you want that old twin-pusher back in, well, draw one of them but at least hand in something. Now the rules of the contest are simple. All you have to do is make a drawing of the size to fit in the corner of the heading and hand it to me at the meeting. It should be your idea of a typical or ideal model. If you wish you can send it to me. So-lets all hand in some drawing and let the editor worry about how good it is. Don't forget-there's a small trophy for the accepted one. C'mon-lets go.

Still rubber vs. gas. (Cont.-page) isfactory. Among many other trophies in the contest was the Walt Addems American Airlines trophy. One of the main events in this contest was the permanent awarding of this club trophy. It was awarded to the club which had the most winners. It was the first club trophy ever awarded in Chicago. It was won by the Chicago Aeronuts. It seems as if the Nuts have finally woken up. Among the winners were Alex Ligas, J. Broadrick, Bob DeBatty, Wally Simmers, Ed Lidgard, John Rosen, Al Balasi, Henry Shaperio and Joe Vermoch.

Things and Stuff

Well, here we are in the third issue of the current series and still struggling along. When are you fellows going to wake up and get a much better bulletin. All you've got to do is SEND IN SOME ARTICLES. Almost anything will do. Send all communications to:

Robert Wolsey 2828 Arthington St.

Now that we're testing out this new way of having meetings-lets all get to know each other better. Look over that list of names. Know to whom they belong. Keeping up this friendship and co-operation will put us on top of the heap again. And dont forget that skating party. The treasury sure needs it.

Lately, it seems that there are too many members who dont know each other. Here's the list.
